

Speeding up Diffraction Analysis using Machine Learning

Hemant Sharma¹, Jun-Sang Park², Peter Kenesei³, Jonathan Almer⁴, Zhengchun Liu⁵, Antonino Miceli⁶

¹Argonne National Lab ²Advanced Photon Source, ³Argonne National Lab, ⁴Advanced Photon Source, ⁵Argonne National Lab, ⁶Argonne National Lab
hsharma@anl.gov

Analysis of diffraction experiments such as High Energy Diffraction Microscopy (HEDM) requires accurate detection of diffraction peak positions, which, in turn, requires significant computation times when processed using conventional peak-fitting algorithms. This talk will show the recently developed BraggNN architecture, which leverages Machine Learning to speed up this time-consuming part of data analysis.